A national journal on educator training describes “a deep commitment to professional learning and widespread use of data” in the Long Beach Unified School District.

The article, “Let Data Do the Talking,” appears in the fall edition of the Journal of Staff Development. The piece includes an extensive interview with LBUSD Superintendent of Schools Christopher J. Steinhauser.

The journal, produced by the National Staff Development Council, is known as the authority on professional learning.

NSDC writer Tracy Crow notes that Long Beach schools are widely praised for their success. In a Q & A, Steinhauser discusses the importance of remaining committed to research and professional development even during tough budget years.
